

CASALONGA

Interactive UPC Code supplemented with case law

On June 1st, 2023, the Unified Patent Court (UPC) entered into force, which redefined strategies for protecting and defending intellectual property rights in Europe.

In the past year, over 230 decisions have been handed down by this new court.

To help patent and innovation professionals navigate this new environment, Casalonga's teams have created an Interactive Code, offering a quick and easy reading of the texts governing the UPC, in the three official languages (English, French, and German), as well as commentaries on the most important Rules.

We are pleased to announce that our Interactive Code is now supplemented with the UPC decisions directly linked to the relevant Rules and Articles.

Cross-references

All Rules and Articles can be viewed easily with the use of pop-ups for each reference.

Search by keywords

Search all UPC texts, commentaries, and decisions by keywords.

Case Law

All Rules and Articles are linked to the relevant UPC case law.

Commentaries

The most important Rules and Articles are commented.

Use our free access Interactive Code
www.upc-casalonga.eu

Our teams have actively worked to design this Interactive Code intended for IP professionals.

Founded in 1867, Casalonga is a European group of more than 120 Attorneys & Staff (Attorneys-at-law, Patent and Trademark Attorneys, Lawyers, Engineers, and administrative Staff) with offices in France and in Europe and an international network of correspondants. At the heart of innovation, Casalonga has been developing for years digital tools designed to facilitate its client's projects and to assist them in protecting and defending their intellectual property rights (creation of tools for preserving evidence of use, budget management, the UPP Unitary Patent application allowing the easy comparison of costs depending on whether or not the Unitary Patent has been chosen, etc.).